BC Bioenergy Network Announces Management Changes

VANCOUVER, BC – 1 February, 2017 - BC Bioenergy Network (BCBN), a provincially-funded association supporting the growing bioenergy sector in British Columbia, provided an update to its Directors and Management composition.

The Board and Management of BCBN sends its best wishes to Michael Weedon, who recently stepped down as Executive Director and Director on the board of BCBN. “We extend our gratitude to Michael Weedon for his leadership as Executive Director,” said Brent Sauder, Chair of the Board for BC Bioenergy Network. “Michael’s dedication, creativity and vision were instrumental in the successes that BCBN has achieved since its inception.”

BCBN also welcomes Brent Sauder as Executive Chairman and Scott Stanners as Acting Executive Director.

About BC BIOENERGY NETWORK - Established in April 2008 with a $25 million grant from the BC government, BC Bioenergy Network is an industry-led association that acts as a catalyst for deploying near-term bioenergy technologies and organizing mission-driven research for the development and demonstration of sustainable world class bioenergy capability in BC.
